

Raymundo Reyes

Ray Reyes launched his immigration and litigation practice at Schneider & Onofry after excelling academically at the University of Arizona.

I am passionate about advocating for our clients and giving them my best effort to achieve the best results. I enjoy opportunities to cultivate effective professional relationships with clients, so that my efforts on their behalf truly reflect their unique needs and goals.

Immigration and civil litigation attorney Ray Reyes is a 2016 graduate of the James E. Rogers College of Law at the University of Arizona, where he was Articles Editor of the Arizona Law Review, earned the Dean's Achievement Scholarship, and received the Outstanding Performance in Legal Writing Award. He earned his bachelor's degree from the Barrett Honors College at Arizona State University.

In the community, Ray has taught English to refugee children through Community Outreach & Advocacy for Refugees (COAR). His hobbies include gardening, reading, and playing Rummikub.